

International Studies Graduate Seminar

THE UNITED STATES AND THE MIDDLE EAST
IN HISTORICAL AND POLITICAL PERSPECTIVE

YOSSI SHAIN*

June 5th, classroom 3C, 10.30- 12.30 a.m.

The New Middle East, The shifting nature of Regimes, States, and International Power

June 6th, Sala del Consiglio 4th floor, 10.30- 12.30 a.m.

The US in the Middle East: From Truman to Trump. How is Israel addressed during those years?

June 6th, Sala del Consiglio 4th floor, 17- 18.30 p.m.

Democracy in the Age of Populism; The limits of the liberal state and their impact on Israel and Europe (Plenary Lecture)

June 7th, classroom 3C, 10.30- 12.30 a.m.

What is the Essence of Nationalism in Our Time, and how it responds to forces of tea nationalism and Globalization: A broad analysis of ideology and practice

*Romulo Betancourt Professor of Political Science at Tel Aviv University and Full Professor of Comparative Government and Diaspora Politics at Georgetown University

Referent: Prof. Daniele Fiorentino – The United States and the World in the 20th and 21st centuries

Department of Political Science, via Gabriello Chiabrera, 199

Attendance of all four lessons is compulsory for the attribution of 2 ECTS