Master in International Studies

The two-year Master in International Studies (MAIS) provides you with the key tools to understand the complexities of today's international politics, thanks to the variety of perspectives and analytical frameworks that you will be trained to use in the classroom.

The Department

Our Department of Political Science at Roma Tre University offers one of the few MA programmes in International Studies in Italy entirely taught in English. Our international faculty offers a wide range of high-quality research and teaching in diverse disciplines, with regional specializations in European, North and South American, Middle Eastern, Asian, and African studies.

The Department is conveniently located in a state-of-the-art building with smart classrooms in the San Paolo district. It is close to the city centre and next to two metro stops (the Colosseum is 4 metro stops away).

MAIS at a glance

The MAIS programme is designed to prepare students for a career in diplomacy, international organizations, NGOs, business, and research. Its core study areas are International History, International Relations, International Macroeconomics, and International Law.

Why Roma Tre University?

Roma Tre University is a young university for young people. Founded in 1992, it has rapidly grown both in number of students and courses, and today features 13 departments.

Among its founding values are the development and dissemination of knowledge, the promotion of high-quality international research, excellence in advanced education, as well as environmental protection, international solidarity, gender equality, and the encouragement of merit.

Roma Tre is a dynamic, modern and international university, which is also playing a major role in the urban regeneration of the city by converting abandoned industrial buildings into factories of knowledge and by connecting Rome to the world.
